How to Extend the Life of Your Final Filters and Lower Costs

In every process, the final filter is critical in assuring that your filtrate meets expectations and requirements. It is typically the most expensive filter as well. The useful life span of a final filter will determine your replacement schedule and impact your filtration costs.

But what if it were possible to prolong the life of your final filters, improve process efficiency, and lower filtration costs? By implementing an effective Prefiltration strategy, this can be achieved.

Since 1998, we have been supporting process teams by providing effective business and technical filtration solutions that achieve our customers' goals. Critical Process Filtration is a mid-sized filter manufacturer that has designed and shipped millions of filters to numerous companies producing pharmaceuticals, food, chemicals, electronics, medical supplies, and more.

What's new with CPF?

Critical Process Filtration is Excited to be Sponsoring the 2025 Trans-NH Bike Ride

2025 Trans-NH Bike Ride

Critical Process was happy to sponsor one of our employees who is participating in this year's Trans-NH Bike Ride. All proceeds from the ride go directly to the Muscular Dystrophy Association to fund research, summer camps, and other services for those affected by muscular dystrophy.

2025 BIO International Convention

Last month, Critical Process Filtration was one of thousands of exhibitors at the 2025 BIO International Convention. The convention center in Boston saw over 20,000 visitors from all corners of the Biotechnology and Pharmaceutical industry to further the investment and research in the industry.

Coming Soon!

New Serializing on CPF Capsules

In an exciting new update for our standard capsule products, they will now receive a QR code enclosing the product's serial number. Capsules will no longer need to be opened to retrieve the product data on the cartridge inside.
